INFO ON PROGRAMS FOR ADULTS

OVERVIEW Justin is the Humoticator™. He uses humor to motivate and educate. His philosophy behind professional development is if you want to improve yourself professionally, you must first help yourself feel personally successful. For this reason, the majority of the following programs were designed to focus personal success. That, in turn, translates into better teaching practices and a more positive educational environment. Caution: Like every program Justin does, these come with a disclaimer. If you want your typical staff development program, where we go from A to Z in a calm, logical manner, these won't work for you. If, however, you are looking for someone who understands students and teachers and who studies the science of the transferring knowledge AND who will be the spitting image of your little ADHD darling, then Justin Lookadoo is the guy for you.

TEACHING & STAFF DEVELOPMENT

PROGRAM
Teaching: Like Sky Diving Without a Parachute

TIME
60–90 minutes

Teaching ain't what it used to be. Instead of a small classroom of students eager to absorb knowledge, teachers are now faced with a room full of critics saying, "Impress me!" And if you don't, they think they can vote you off the island. Is teaching difficult? Yes! Impossible? NO!

In this program, Justin takes the most extreme example of teaching greatness and shows the audience how they can shape their students' perspectives and learning. He uses a story of the best teacher (his own sky diving instructor) and the most unwilling student (himself) to show how a single teacher can convince a petrified student to jump. He will use examples from his own life to show the importance of teachers.

PROGRAMS FOR ADULTS

PROGRAM Teaching: Like Sky Diving Without a Parachute (continued) This program will be a ride your staff won't forget. They will learn how to teach the "hard-sell" students, how to stand up straight and smile, how to make their students beg for more, how to overcome failure, how to find trust, and how to discover their purpose as a teacher. In the end, their fears will be eased and their abilities and passions will be ignited.

PROGRAM Success with a Twist This is a new frontier in staff development. This program will push your staff past gaining knowledge and into living life on purpose. It is part stand-up comedy, part ancient theory, and part pearl-like wisdom—all taught by your worst hyperactive nightmare. By the end of the program, the audience will learn and believe three ideas: live with no regrets, get over it, and oh—his poor mother. Topics of discussion will include making commitments, life-long learning, overcoming obstacles, and reaching out to others.

TIME 50 minutes

PROGRAM H.T.R.F.O. (How to Run Folks Off) Justin gets to say out loud what teachers are whispering about and administrators are thinking. He will tell you "How to Run Folks Off". Face it. There are people that need to go. Negativity. Selfishness. Rudeness. These have no place in the school. This program will send the staff a challenge to make sure that everything they do or say is wrapped in G.E.T. (Gratitude, Encouragement, Thanksgiving). With this commitment comes an amazing result. Those negative forces in your district will change or find a new place to call home. Either way, your district is better and your students are the winners.

TIME 25 minutes

PARENTING PROGRAMS

PROGRAM Parent Tell-All Conference Don't you wish you had a spy inside your kid's world who could tell you what your kids really want, need, and think? Well, now you do. Justin Lookadoo is now doing a tell-all program for parents about their kids. He is honest with the group right from the start. He will confess that he doesn't know how to be a parent from a parent's perspective, because he's not one. But he can tell you how to be a parent from the kids' perspective, because that's who he hangs out with every day. That is who he talks to. Kids tell him things that they would never tell their parents.

Parent Tell-All is pretty much an intense Q and A. Parents get to come with their confusion and questions and leave with concrete answers and strategies on how to raise and develop their children so they will grow into successful, happy adults.
